

Sent by:

[Redacted]

08/04/2017 07:21 p.m.

To: medsafeapplications@moh.govt.nz,

cc:

bcc:

Subject: 'Miconazole warning statements'

Dear Sir/Madam

This is a potentially very serious interaction, and I am not sure either statement is strong enough.

I prefer (just) the statement

Patients taking warfarin - talk to a healthcare professional before using [this product]

because it specifically advise to talk to a health professional about this. The first statement is less strong and the patient may assume a script, for example, is advice to use the product.

Yours sincerely

[Redacted signature]

---