Utrogestan (progesterone) 100mg capsules – Temporary supply of overseas product

Dear Healthcare Professional,

Temporary stock-shortage situation

We are writing to inform you of a temporary supply shortage of Utrogestan (progesterone) 100mg capsules.

To ensure continuous supply, a labelling exemption has been granted by Medsafe for the supply of Utrogestan 100mg capsules from the United Kingdom.

This labelling exemption is only a temporary solution and is specific to the following batch:

Lot: E1260032

Exp: 12/2028

As a result, there will be a period in which the United Kingdom pack will be distributed concurrently with the New Zealand product in the market.

Using the UK pack of Utrogestan 100mg

Please be advised that the dosage and indications remain the same as what is currently registered in New Zealand. Despite the 'UK only' statement on the packaging, please note that the UK product is identical to the New Zealand product. The differences only relate to the product labelling. Please refer to the section below for further details.

Doctors and patients can refer to the Medsafe website for the NZ datasheet and CMI, which is also the product leaflet in the NZ pack.

- The UK pack mentions 'UK only'. However, product is identical to the NZ product and can be used interchangeably.
- The UK pack does not mention sulfites as allergen, due to different regulatory requirements in the UK. However, the NZ Data sheet lists sulfites as an allergen in section 2.0
- The UK pack does not mention specific storage conditions. Please note the storage conditions are the same as the NZ product and refrigeration is not required.

Product Information leaflet

- The UK leaflet contains additional safety information and has a different format to the NZ leaflet. However, this does not contradict the information in the NZ leaflet. The UK leaflet can therefore be used interchangeably.
- The NZ leaflet is also the NZ CMI, which can be accessed on the Medsafe website.
